also the dignity and integrity of the senate itself. It should therefore be considered with judicial calmness, and the deliberations freed, as much as might be, from partisan bias and prejudice. We know it was not necessary to say, "obnoxious."

know it was not necessary to assure the senate that it had been in that spirit that the majority of the committee on privileges and elections commenced and continued consideration of the case Senators could, of course, only be elected by the state legislature, and in order to seat a man in the senate he must be chosen by the legislature. But it was not necessary, in his opinion, to go beyond what might be called prima facie evidence, and that might be obtained from the fact that the prisoners were taken to the county jail here last night. The plans of the leaders in the movement were well laid and carried out.

Springer demanded a second, and the motion was seconded, 128 to 67. Morrill briefly explained that the substitute provided a service pension of $8 per month to soldiers who have reached the age of 62 years or who are dependent. He thought the same principle which had been applied to veterans of the war of 1812 and the war with Mexico should be applied to veterans of the war of 1861. In answer to a question he stated which he was placed for about two hours, when one of the prisoners reached through the bars of his cell and untied his hands. Beard soon liberated himself then, and ran out of the cell into the street, where he was arrested by the
